NEW YORK, July 13 .- The President and Secretary of the Cincinnati Convention have forwarded the following letters to General Hancock and Mr. English :

JULY 13, 1880. To General Hancock : SIR: - The National Convention of the Democratic party, which assembled at Cincinnati on the 22d of last month, unaniously nominated you as their candidate or President of the United States, and we ave been directed to inform you of your omination of this exalted trust, and reest your acceptance. In accordance ith the uniform custom of the Democratic arty, the Convention have announced views upon the important issues ich are before the country in a ries of resolutions, to which we inite your attention. These resolutions embody the general principles upon which the Democratic party demand that the government shall be conducted, and they also emphatically condemn maladministration by the party in power, its crimes against the Constitution, and espeally against the right of the people to pose and instal their President, which ve wrought so much injury and dishonor our country. That which chiefly ined your nomination was the fact that had conspicuously recognized and exlified the yearning of the American for reconciliation and brotherhood r the shield of the Constitution, with s jealous care and guarantees for the hts of persons and of States. Your mination was not made alone because in midst of arms you illustrated the highmalities of a soldier, but because when war had ended, and when in recognif your courage and fidelity you were ed in command of a part of the Union rgoing a process of restoration, and you were thus clothed with absolute you used it not to subvert but to the civil laws and the rights they established to protect. Your to those principles manifested portant trusts heretofore confided to are, gives proof that they will trol your administration of the Naad Government, and assures the counone indissoluble union of inctible States, and the Constitution its wise distribution of power and r the boundaries of States, and authority will not suffer in hands. That you will maintain a dination of the military to the civil and will accomplish a purification public service, and especially that overnment which we love will be free the reproach or stain of sectional ation or malice in any shape or form. American people upon this bright prose for the future of our country, we wish to express to you, personally, the asurance of the general esteem and confience which have summoned you to this igh duty, and will aid in its performance. B. L. Gildersleeve, Ph. D., Gottingen, LL.D., Professor of Greek in Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

Rarely have text-books been greeted with so large a measure of favor and hearty appreciation, as these books by Professor Gildersleeve have received from the best scholastic and educational minds of the country. The author now of national reputation as a scholar, has had now of national reputation as a scholar, has had very complete preparation for such a work. After being graduated at Princeton, he studied for several years in the Universities of Germany, where he received his Ph.D., etc., with highest honors. His subsequent life has been devoted to teaching and linguistic study. When the new and richly endowed Johns Hopkins University sought for a fit man for its chair of Greek, the appointment was conferred on Prof. Gildersleeve, after wide conference, and without his solicitation or effort, and his work as senior professor of the University attracts marked attention. He is also the presiding officer of the Prof. Gildersleeve's Latin books are the product of this order of ability and educational for beginners, at once holds the interest of the pupil, and prepares him thoroughly for ready and intelligent use of Grammar and Reader, or Latin author. It supplies: "Maximum of Forms; Minimum of Syntax; Early Contact with the Language in Mass."

A teacher in one of the leading High Schools of the country, who conducted a large class through this book, writes:

"We have just finished the Primer, having spent upon it thirty-foar weeks; and I have been trying to realize my pupils' attitude towards the study, as compared with that of other classes I have known. They have the use of a larger vocabulary; their text-book has secured larger vocabulary; their text-book has secured for them a careful drill in the normal terminations; they have been brought more into contions; they have been brought more into contact with the language in the concrete, and have, therefore, a more vivid interest in it; and they have been less perplexed by exceptional forms and difficult construction.

"The book is thoroughly alive, and will perforce make its students so."

THE LATIN GRAMMAR THE LATIN GRAMMAR

LETTERS OF ACCEPTANCE.

Judge Buxton's letter of acceptance clsewhere printed in this morning's NEWS. has the merit of brevity. He had nothing to say and has said it. There is yet some uncertainty as to whether Judge Buxton will be a candidate. He is to be here, we understand, and confer with his Executive Committee on the 22d inst., when the question of resignation of his Judgeship and a canvassing tour will be determined As the Judge does not intend to resign. and as the committee is not disposed to go halves and make such a resignation of livelihood acceptable, it is thought that the Judge will be allowed to remain in hi present office during the campaign, so that he may not be left with nothing to de

General GARFIELD is a much wordie man, and strings a lot of commonplaces together in very good style. Generally, his letter, also reprinted this morning, i as meaningless as the platform it accepts and endorses. One point it does make plain: that General GARFIELD has no abandoned the policy of hate which has governed his life, as the lives of other noncombatant folk, since the actual fighting of the war ended. His declarations in regard to the Southern question will not be regarded as reassuring or satisfactory by those who wish for an end of sectional strife, as they indicate in GARFIELD, the candidate for President, the same spirit which moved GARFIELD, the stumpthe ignorant Ohioans with false memories of the "Hell of Andersonville." The hand which wrote this letter is the same that he then pledged should "never grasp any Rebel's hand, across any chasm, however small."

THE Philadelphia Times, noting the dozen States which are claimed by General WEAVER, the Greenback Presidential nominee, as sure to vote for him, and in hardly one of which will there be Greenback Electoral ticket, thinks that WEAVER is "really a candidate for the lunatic asylum," "a born fool," or an unconscionable liar. It is not safe, however, to despise a third party in politics because its success is a plain impossibility. The Abolitionists carried no votes for JAMES G. BIRNEY in 1844, but by running him in a few closely-contested States they defeated Mr. CLAY and elected Mr. Polk. Four years later, by running Mr. VAN BUREN they gave New York to General TAYLOR and made him President over General Cass. So, the Greenbackers may influence results in a few close States though they accomplish nothing for them-

SMALL as the majority which the Demo crats have been so far able to secure in Congress, and unreliable as it has been when Louisiana sugar or Pennsylvania iron interests were endangered, it has effected at least one great blessing for the country. Let our people look back to 1868, 1872 and 1876, and take comfort in the fact that once more a Presidential election will be held under the constitution and by the use of constitutional methods. There will be in no State two State Governments, each claiming authority and each the right to make election returns. There will be no garrisons in State Capitols and no troops overawing or defying courts. There will be no violence this time, and quiet people may quietly vote in the Southern States, for once more there is Home Rule in them.

NEWSPAPER MEN like variety. The Agent of the Associated Press sympathizes with them in that particular to a certain extent. It is not to a very valuable extent it is true, but even a symptom of a desire to impart life to the dying or dead "news" which is daily transmitted by telegraph to the Southern States attracts attention, and is worthy of appreciation. The symptom to which we have reference shows itself in the New York money quotations. These quotations have been the same for a time beyond which the memory of a man on a daily newspaper runneth not to the contrary, but there has of late been a delightful variety in the adjectives annexed to them. It is true that these adjectives convey ideas which are incomprehensible if the accompanying figures be correct; but it is so new a thing to have an idea conveyed by a press dispatch that one puts up with the incomprehensibility of the statement to which long acquaintance with telegraphic methods has accustomed us. The thing that pleases us is the ingenuity with which violent fluctuations in the New York money market are indicated without a change of figures. Money, for instance, at noon, is quoted at 2 to 3, dry so; at night it is "weak and lower," but is still 2 to 3; next, it is "strong and higher," at 2 to 3, but is quieted off again by night to 2 to 3; vesterday it was "irregular," at 2 to 3, and as we write these lines we hear the proof of the noon bulletin read out, announcing that it is "strong, active and higher"-at 2 to 3! What it will be when we read the midnight market may be known up above; we only feel confident that even if our Washington friend gets up to four adject- the woman with a handsome diam ives by that hour, he will pull up short with 2 to 3.

THE WINSTON Leader reprints the Democratic plan of organization and sends us a paper with this paragraph marked for answer to its inquiry. "Under the new plan of Democratic organization, which we publish elsewhere, each township is entitled to one representative for every one hundred voters, and one for every additional fifty over. Now suppose a township does not have one hundred voters. What about that?" Even Homer sometimes nods, and our very wide-awake friend of the Leader must have napped while proofreading or he would have found the answer at the end of the paragraph he cites, in the shape of a "provided, that each township shall be entitled to cast at least one vote.'

THE FORBIDDEN FRUIT is as dear to DAM as it was to EVE. White squatters are forbidden to go into the Indian Territory. Forthwith there is a rush for it. A thousand men are said to be en route from Texas, although that State has hundreds of thousands of acres of the best untilled land in the Union: Kansas people are deserting their own State to run the risk of being shot by the Indians, and even Illinoisans are joining the movement. It is to be hoped that the rightful owners of the soil may have the courage and the means to welcome them "with bloody hands to hospitable graves."

OUR BRETHREN OF THE PRESS may do themselves as well as the Democratic party a service by mailing their issues reg ularly for use in the rooms of the Demo cratic State Executive Comittee in this city. The committee may thus be posted as to local political interests, and gentlemen from all parts of the State (Raleigh speaker, at Dayton last October, to stir up is never without them) may see their home papers with home news.

The several County Executive Commit tees are requested to place themselves in early and frequent communication with the Central Executive Committee.

WE ARE glad to learn that the North Carolina Radical Executive Committee is to have just as much money as it wants for campaign purposes in North Carolina. The first instalment, cash down, is $25,000. This is the effect of the fun which has been poked at the New York Times by its Raleigh correspondent, and at other Yankee folk by their correspondents. It will answer almost the same purpose as General GRANT's nomination would have effected. We need a lively fight in North Carolina, and we shall have it

THEY are a very ignorant people are the people of the North, but it seems to us that the New York Tribune counts rather too confidently upon their stupidity when it tells them in plain words that last year's big crops of wheat and corn and cotton are the results of Radical administration of the government.

EIGHT YEARS of Radical rule, closing in 1876, cost South Carolina $10,316,040; an average of $1,289,505 a year. Three years of Democratic rule succeeding have cost $1,472,502; an average of $490, 834, a saving of no less than $2,396,013 in three years. Democracy pays the people over there as here.

WAKE POLITICS :--

Barton's Creek, July 12, 1880.—The time is at hand when we should be looking out for some good man for our next legislature; one whom the people can confide in. I hope every township in Wake, will at their conventions, look well to their interest, and try to select a man that will do to tie to; and one who can carry the Democratic vote, at our next election. We want men that know what a day's work is worth, and what it takes to make a dollar. and not one that cannot enter the street or road without a shade (sun or no sun). We believe we have that man, one who has been tried, (not denied,) and we wish to try him in our next Legislature.

He is not a citizen of this township, yet he has many strong friends, who will give him their hearty support at our next election, if he is the nominee. He has many warm friends in this township, and those that will do all they can to secure his election. It was in this township that he wooed, and obtained his better half, and if he had not been looked upon as a man of the right grit, he undoubtedly would have tried a lover in some other locality. W. N. Snellings, of Wake, is the man; he is one among our best citizens, and one we have the utmost confidence in, one the more you know of him the better you like him. With a plenty of such men in office, old Wake would soon come forth in her beautiful garment, and be what we wish it, a model of good representatives and laws, that we would be proud of. Let us try Snellings, and if he should betray the confidence we have in him, we can throw him overboard with the rubbish as one not being worthy of our trust.

[Correspondence of THE RALEIGH NEWS.] NEW YORK, July 12, 1880.

EDITOR NEWS:—I regret to have to write that Col. Scales died this morning at past 12 o'clock. He was without pain in the death, without revival of speech, and without consciousness for several hours. The State has lost a valuable citizen, who had served her faithfully in the army and in the Senate, and was eminent in his Church, at the Bar, and in private lifecut off in early maturity from so much to make life attractive. But he died "the death of the rightous." His brother. Gen. Scales, will to-night carry the remains to Greensboro. In grateful remembrance of my old

Scotch friends on the Cape Fear, I went up vesterday to Dr. John Hall's Church on Fifth Avenue and 55th Street, to hear the latest eminent minister from "the land o' cakes." the Rev. Principal Cairns, of Edinburgh, and I was well repaid by listening to one of the most able sermons that I remember, on "the Man, Christ Jesus-the name that is above every name." Dr. Cairns is probably more than 60 years of age, with very gray hair, beard and whiskers, of stout frame, strong voice. Scottish accent, and vehement rather than graceful gestures and manner. In movement and in speech he reminded me of his countryman the Rev. Dr. Taylor. of Broadway Tabernacle, who has made so much reputation as preacher and author, and whom, no doubt, many of your readers have heard. Most of the wealthy congregation are of course out of town at this season, and so the very large church was not half filled, and of those present, probably half were, like myself, strangers, indebted to the ready courtesy of the ush ers for seats. I was put into the pew of the celebrated Dr. Agnew, and by my side sat a reporter, putting down with lightning speed, the earnest words of the preacher, not in short-hand hieroglyphies, as my old friend Mr. Gales always wrote, but in full words, the immaterial words being omitted, doubtless, to be supplied in writing out for the press. As soon as the sermon was finished, without waiting for the closing services, he picked up his hat and umbrella and was off, being the only person, I think, that moved till after the benediction. I have not seen the paper in which I suppose his report is published this morning.

My bad writing led your compositor into a mistake, which I beg to correct. It was M. C. Millinder, and not William son, who gained the prize of the fifth medal at the Bingham School.

Dr. Leffman, a well-known chemist of Philadelphia, has been investigating the processes and the substances used in the manufacture of spiritous, vinous and malt liquors. He says, "some wines of noted or favored brands are produced only a pipe or two a year, yet these brands may generally be purchased in large quantity in all the principal markets of the world." This reminds me, as Mr. Lincoln used to say, scribed for me the Turkish Rhubarb root, of which I bought, or supposed I had bought, several ounces in the course of a year. About that time I was looking for some other purpose into the Treasury report of all importations into the country, and found that of Turkish Rhubarb root there had been imported just fourteen pounds. And so, if I had gotten the Turkish root-as of course I had not-I had been favored with about one fiftysixth part of the entire importation. I have never inquired for the Turkish since, and so, whilst getting an article equally good, pay eighty cents for a half pound, instead of seventy-five cents an ounce. But to return to Dr. Leffman: "To demonstrate the processes employed in making spurious liquors, the doctor produced a small quantity of rectified spirits and mixed with it several drops of burnt sugar coloring matter used by the trade. This gave the spirits a beautiful tint that resembled a good brand of old whisky. He then added a few drops of brandy essence, and by agitating the liquid briskly for a moment announced that he was making right rapidly a good article of cognac brandy. It was still imper-fect, as it lacked body and ripeness, which time gives to real liquor; but the experimenter said time was too slow for the trade, so that he would do as was done every day, and thereupon added a small quantity of a standard "age and body" preparation which the trade furnishes. Having done this the doctor said all his bottle now required was a label, certifying that the article is "very old cognac brandy," made by the famous French distil-

This quality of age, or ripeness, imparted to liquors, is not necessarily a cheat. It is only so when labeled "very old whisky," and thereby seeming to justify a demand of a high price. Our friend, Judge Fcan hardly have forgotten when he was the guest of a very honorable old gentleman in the up country who distilled whisky from his abundant crop of corn. The Judge having drank of what he supposed to be very old and very fine whisky, asked his host how old it was? "It was made last Wednesday," was the reply. Of course it had undergone that process by which the fusil oil, or whatever else of newness, had been extracted.

The Pee Dee Country.

[NEWS EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.] WADESBORO, July 12, 1880.

From my seat may be enjoyed one of the most beautifully picturesque views to be found in the South, but I shall not attempt to describe it. Its varying shades and grand old hills, just refreshed and brightened by the grateful showers, awake leasant reminiscences of "the long ago." But as the eve stretches across the valley of the Great Pee Dee, and sweeps the horizon for a hundred miles, sentiment gives way to earnest thought. This is emphatically an earnest age. It is a moving, pushing, rushing, practical age, and even hundred and sixteen years ago were ejected the arrogant officers of the British Crown, seems to have caught something of the spirit of the times. True, the completion of the Cheraw and Salisbury Railroad, which brought the engine to the depot on last Saturday, excited no very enthusiastic demonstrations, but that the importance of the event is appreciated is abundantly atested by the ringing hammer, the loads of framing lumber and the huge piles of bricks, from which is being erected a number of buildings. Two large brick stores are going up, one by J. C. Marshall & Co., and the other by D. N. Bennett & Co. The merchants here, as elsewhere, are anticipating an active trade this fall. The facilities afforded by the new road for reaching the Charleston market are not among the most trifling reasons given by them for saying that the receipts of cotton at this point for the ensuing season will be increased very probably one hundred per Whether Wadesboro, as a town, is to derive great benefit from her railroad, is a question of the future, and must depend greatly on the forethought and enterprise of her citizens. I am frank to say this, for the healthfulness of the locality, the beauty of the scenery, and the many advantages and attractions it presents, are possessed by few towns in the State. Sumner and winter resorts are in demand by health and pleasure seekers. A first-class hotel here, supplied with the modern appliances and improvements, and managed roperly, should be crowded in winter with orthern visitors, and in summer with those from the South. We have two such already, one at High Point, the other at Kittrells. I refer to these particularly because I believe they are not classed as watering places proper. Thousands of Northern people would spend their winters in our State-in the Central and Eastern ections—if they could be accommodated.

This section has had fine rains recently, and crops are looking well. The cotton crop especially is very fine. Indeed this is true of the crop throughout the cotton counties, where it was planted in time, and am told by old planters the crop is from two to three weeks in advance of any previous crop at the same date. The yield of cotton in the South since tle war has been uniformly good. The crop of last year prospect is that it will be exceeded by the present crop. And the question is naturally suggested, how is it that the South with its labor system entirely subverted and revolutionized, can still produce as much cotton as in ante-bellum days. I think so far as North Carolina is concerned the answer may be found: First. It is more largely cultivated to the exclusion of other crops. In other days our farmers regarded any system that would preclude them from producing their farm supplies at home, as false, extravagant and ruinous. They had their hay in their barns instead of Maine, they had their corn and meat at home instead of Ohio and Iowa, and it took some of their labor, time and good cotton lands to Second. Improved culture has greatly increased the aggregate yield. Concentrated fertilizers and sweeps have wrought wonderful improvement in the last few years. It is not uncommon to hear of ten. fifteen or twenty bales being produced with a single mule; indeed, we have a Wake county farmer, I believe, who claims as high as forty-seven bales last year to a single mule. And with all its disadvantages, as I conceive, the culture of cotton as a single money crop, has evoked highly improved methods, within the past five years. I was informed by Mr. J. A. Liles, of Lilesville, that he undertook the sale of an improved plow a few years ago. He failed to sell as many as a dozen in the year 1878 but he sold nearly one hundred the present season. I very well remember when it took at least five furrows to "plow out" a row of cotton, now it is done better with three furrows, and even greater savings are accomplished with improved implements in other crops. When I was a boy, with our boasted farming in this good old county, it required eight furrows to "plow out" our corn; now one man with two horses can ride and do the work better by going over the row one time. It required four able-bodied men to labor hard from "early morn to dewy eve" to reap twelve acres of grain; now with the reaper one man on his spring seat can ride around and whistle "hard times come no more," and the golden grain falls before his glittering blades and at night he has the twelve acres lying at his feet. These are the great helps that must take the place of demoralized labor in LILESVILLE, N. C., July 12. EDITOR NEWS :- Nearly two years ago John C. Birmingham suddenly and mysteriously disappeared from this vicinity. He left a wife, had paid his debts, was a good sort of citizen, had suffered much from domestic troubles and connubial infelicities, and had the sympathies of many people. Rumors were rife at the time of murder. But they took no tangible shape until very recently, when our worthy cor-oner felt it his duty to investigate. Excitement ran high. A jury looked into wells, mill ponds, caves, ditches, pine thickets and briar patches. But John was not found. No bones or hair, no toenails or pants buttons, no trace or traces or trace-chains, no chain of circumstances by which to trace poor John to his death. People didn't know exactly what to do, but just then a letter was received by a well known citizen of Wadesboro from an equally well known citizen of Arkansas, a native and for many years a highly respected citizen of Anson, in which these words occurred: "John Birmingham lives near me, and is getting along very well.'

Thus the bottom has dropped out of very big sensation. But when John comes back lively times may be looked for; his successor had best get away.

As I wrote you lately, there is much en thusiasm hereabouts over National and State nominations. My experience in poli tical matters extends over a good many years—as you, Mr. Editor, recalling the days of '44, when we were in New York together "enthusing," may rememberand I can say, most unqualifiedly, that l never saw such unanimity and satisfaction. such hopefulness and confidence as nov prevail in the Democratic ranks. Maybe possibly, there's too much of it all. Work s needed more, really, than confidence and enthusiasm. More than once those ingredients, in over-doses, have been fatal to Democracy in our State. A gentleman of this vicinity who visited Raleigh last week brought back with him the assurance personally given that Governor Jarvis would soon visit our county, and an effort was at once organized to induce him to meet his many friends here at Lilesville. He is wonderfully popular in Anson: though but few comparatively, of our citizens know him personally. [St. Louis Globe, July 1.] Yesterday a big-boned Texan something over six feet high, with an enormous broadbrimmed hat and a sweeping mustache reaching nearly to his shoulders, stood at the Laclede Hotel office carelessly examing the register. A slight twitching at his coat skirts was passed by unheeded, but a more vigorous pull caused him to look around expecting to greet a joking friend or something of the sort. He saw nothing and was turning back to the register leaves again when his glance fell upon such a wee mite of a girl, whose head was such a short distance from the floor that it was no wonder he had not seen her. The wild-looking face bent down to the little one and a deep bass voice asked, "What is it, little

What was said between woman and child could not be heard, but when the little waif laid the half dollar on the counter the woman shook her head and pushed it back very far towards the child, as if her resolution might not hold out very steadfast. MENTOR, OHIO, July 10, 1880.

Hon. George F. Hoar, Chairman:

DEAR SIR:—On the evening of the Sth of June last, I had the honor to receive from you, in the presence of the committee of which you were chairman, the official announcement that the Republican National Convention at Chicago had that day nominated me for their candidate for President of the United States. I accept the nomination, with gratitude for the confidence it implies, and with a deep sense of the responsibilities it imposes. I cordially endorse the principles set forth in the platform adopted by the Convention. On nearly all the subjects of which it treats, my opinions are on record among the published proceedings of Congress. I venture, however, to make special mention of some of the principal topics which are likely to become subjects of discussion, without renewing the controversies which have been settled during the last twenty years, and with no purpose or wish to revive the passions of the late war. It should be said that while Republicans fully recognize and will strenuously defend all the rights maintained by the people, and all the rights reserved to the States, they reject the pernicious doctrine of State supre macy, which so long crippled the functions of the National Government, and at one time brought the Union very near to destruction. They insist that the United States is a nation, with ample power of self-preservation; that its constitution and laws made in pursuance thereof are the su-preme law of the land; that the right of he nation to determine the method by which its own legislature shall be created cannot be surrendered without abdicating one of the fundamental powers of the government; that the national laws relating to the election of representatives in Congress shall neither be violated nor evaded; that every elector shall be permitted freely and without intimidation to cast his lawful ballot at such election and have it honestly counted, and that the potency of his vote shall not be destroyed by the fraudulent vote of any other person. The best thoughts and energies of our people should be directed to those great questions of material well being, in which all have a common interest. Such efforts will soonest restore perfect peace to those who were lately in arms against each other, for justice and good-will will outlast passion; but it is certain the wounds of the war cannot be completely healed and the spirit of brotherhood cannot fully pervade the whole country until every citizen, rich or poor, white or black, is secure in the free and equal enjoyment of every civil and political right guaranteed by the Constitution and the laws. Wherever the enjoyment of this right is not assured discontent will prevail, immigration will cease, and the social and industrial forces will continue to be disturbed by the migration of laborers and the consequent diminution of pros-

The national government should exercise all its constitutional authority to put government is perhaps the most difficu and all the States are members of one body, and no member can suffer without injury to all. The most serious evils which now affect the South arise from the fact that there is not such freedom and toleration of political opinion and action that the minority party can exercise an effective and wholesome restraint upon the party in power. Without such restrain party rule becomes tyrannical and corrupt. Prosperity, which is made possible in the South by its great advantages of soil and climate, will never be realized until every voter can freely and safely support any party he pleases. Next in importance to freedom and justice is popular education, without which neither justice nor freedom can be permanently maintained. Its interests are entrusted to the States and the voluntary action of the people. Whatever help the nation can justly afford should be generously given to aid the States in supporting the commen schools, but it would be unjust to our people and dangerous to our institutions to apply any portion of the revenues of the nation or of the State to the support of sectarian schools. The separation of church and State in everything relating to taxation should be absolute.

On the subject of national finances my views have been so frequently and fully expressed that little is needed in the way of additional statement. The public debt is now so well secured, and the rate of annual interest has been so reduced by refunding, that rigid economy in expenditures and a faithful application of our surplus revenues to the payment of the principal of the debt will gradually but certainly free the people from its burdens, and close with honor the financial chapter of the war. At the same time the government can provide for all its ordinary expenditures and discharge its sacred obligations to the soldiers of the Union, and to the widows and orphans of those who fell in its defence.

The resumption of specie payments, which the Republican party so courageously and successfully accomplished, has removed from the field of controversy many questions that long and seriously disturbed the credit of the government and the business of the country. Our paper currency is now as national as the flag, and resumption has not only made it everywhere equal to coin, but has brought into use our store of gold and silver. The circulating medium is more abundant than ever before, and we need only to maintain the equality of all our dollars to insure to labor and capital a measure of value from the use of which no one can suffer loss. The great prosperity which the country is now enjoying should not be endangered by any vio-lent changes or doubtful financial experi-

In reference to our customs laws a policy should be pursued which will bring reve nues to the Treasury and will enable the labor and capital employed in our great industries to compete fairly in our own markets with the labor and capital of foreign producers. We legislate for the peo-ple of the United States, not for the whole world, and it is our glory that the American laborer is more intelligent and better paid than his foreign competitor. Our country cannot be independent unless its people, with their abundant natural resources, pos-sess the requisite skill at any time to clothe, arm and equip themselves for war, and in time of peace to produce all the necessary implements of labor. It was the manifes intention of the founders of the government standing armies alone, but by raising armie the people a greater army of artisan whose intelligence and skill should power fully contribute to the safety and glore the nation.

Fortunately for the interests of merce, there is no longer any formidal opposition to appropriations for the provement of our harbors and great n gable rivers, provided expenditures for the purpose are strictly limited to works national importance. The Mississippi rive with its great tributaries, is of such si importance to so many millions of the per that the safety of its navigation quires exceptional consideration. In a to secure to the nation control of waters, President Jefferson negotiated nurchase of a vast territory extending from the Gulf of Mexico to the Pacific Occasion The wisdom of Congress should be invoke to devise some plan by which that great river shall cease to be a terror to those who dwell upon its banks, and by which; shipping may safely carry the industrial products of twenty-five millions of people The interests of agriculture, which is hasis of all our material prosperity, and is which seven-twelfths of our population and engaged, as well as the interests of mann factures and of commerce, demand the facilities for cheap transportation shall be increased by the use of all our conwater courses. The material interests of this com-

the traditions of its settlement, and sentiment of our people have led the ernment to offer the widest hospitalit emigrants who seek our shores for new happier homes, willing to share the dens as well as the benefits of our soci and intending that their posterity shall come an undistinguishable part of our ulation. The recent movement of Chinese to our Pacific coast partakes little of the qualities of such an emigration either in its purposes or its result. It too much like an importation to be comed without restriction; too much like invasion to be looked upon without soli tude. We cannot consent to allow form of servile labor to be introdu among us under the guise of immigration Recognizing the gravity of this subject present administration, supported by Co gress, has sent to China a commission distinguished citizens for the purpose securing such a modification of the exist treaty as will prevent the evils likely arise from the present situation. confidently believed that these diplor negotiations will be successful without loss of commercial intercourse between two powers, which promises a great crease of reciprocal trade and the enla ment of our markets. Should these effort fail, it will be the duty of Congress mitigate the evils already felt and pretheir increase by such restrictions, as wit out violence or injustice, will place upo a sure foundation the peace of our ed munities and the freedom and dignity

The appointment of citizens to the ous executive and judicial offices of of all duties which the constitution imposed upon the Executive. The Convention wisely demands that Congress shall cooperate with the executive departments in placing the civil service on a better basis. Experience has proved that with our frequent changes of administration no system of reform can be made effective and permanent without the aidd legislation. Appointments to the military and naval service are so regulated by law and custom, as to leave but little ground of complaint. It may not be wis o make similar regulations by law for the civil service, but without invading the authority or necessary discretion of th Executive, Congress should devise method that will determine the tenure office and greatly reduce the uncertaint which makes that service so uncertain and so unsatisfactory. Without depriving any officer of his rights as a citizen the government should require him to discharge all his official duties with intelligence, efficiency and faithfulness. To select wisely from our vast population those who are best fitted for the many offices to be filled requires an Bequaintance far beyond the range of any one man. The Executive, should, there fore, seek and receive the information and assistance of those whose knowledge of the communities in which the duties are to be performed best qualifies them to aid in making the wisest choice.

Convention are not the temporary devices of the party to attract voters and carry an election. They are deliberate convictions, resulting from a careful study of the spirit of our institutions, the events of our his tory and the best impulses of our people In my judgment these principles should control the legislation and administration of the government. In any event, the will guide my conduct until experience points out a better way. If elected, it will be my purpose to enforce a strict obedience to the Constitution and the laws, and promote as best 1 may the interests and nonor of the whole country, relying for support upon the wisdom of Congress, t ntelligence and patriotism of the people and the favor of God.

THE SUPPLEMENT.—We publish herewith a supplement to the plan of organization adopted by the Central Executive Committee on the 2d inst. This supplement consists of certain amendments to the original plan suggested to the commit-tee. While the original plan was good enough for us we have sufficient faith in the good sense and good judgment of the committee to accept the work. Five thousand copies of the original plan and supplement have been printed and are now ready for distribution. The supplement reads as follows:

ROOMS OF CENTRAL EX. COMMITTEE,

DEMOCRATIC PARTY OF N. C., RALEIGH, N. C., July 12, 1880. In obedience to the party sentiment from arious parts of the State, expressed to this committee, the following additional rules are this day adopted as a supplement to the "Plan of Organization." adopted on the 2d day of July, 1880:

1. That section 1 of "County Organization" be amended by adding thereto the following words: "That the Township Committees shall be elected at meetings of the Democratic voters, called by the County Executive Committee for that purpose. That Democrats of good standing alone shall vote in said meetings; and that said meetings shall be called as soon as practi cable after publication of these rules. 2. That section 6 be amended by making the vote for Governor in the last preceding gubernatorial election the basis of the township vote, instead of the vote for members of the General Assembly. Each township may send as many delegates as it may see

3. That in cases where townships consist of more than one ward or precinct, each of said wards or precincts shall be entitled to send delegates to county conventions, and shall cast its proportionate part of its township's vote, based upon the last preceding vote for Governor in said town-

4. In cases where Township Executive Committees, or County Executive Committees have this year been appointed un-der a former system, the said committees shall continue in office for the term for which they were so elected, with as full powers as if they were elected under this system: but shall in all other respects conform to this system as far as practicable. 5. In cases where all the Township Executive Committees are required to meet for the purpose of electing County Executive Committees, said meetings shall be deemed to have a quorum when a majority of such townships shall be represented in said meetings.

In cases where county conventions have met and sent their delegates to the different conventions, the said delegates will act under their said appointment, but will cast in their respective conventions only the votes prescribed by the plan of organization adopted July 2d, 1880:

By order of the committee: OCTAVIUS COKE, Chairman. J. J. LITCHFORD, Secretary.

-WAKE'S NUMBERS .- Below we give a statement of the report of the census takers for Wake county as far as filed. Three reports, one for one of the divisions of the city of Raleigh, one for Panther Branch township, and the other for that part of Wake Forest township lying West of Smith's Creek, are not yet filed. Our recollection is that the missing report from Raleigh comprises about 1,600 names, and we suppose the others are of about the same size. So that at least 4,500 may be added to our figures given below. The figures already in, however,

Resolutions of Respect.

At a called meeting of the Cotton and Grocer's Exchange, held on the 12th inst. the following preamble and resolutions of respect were adopted:

WHEREAS, The Supreme disposer of all events has seen good, in the dispensation of an inscrutable providence, to remove from amongst us our esteemed friend and fellow-member, Frank C. Christophers, who departed this life about mid-day on the 11th inst. in the 35th year of his age; and while, with meekness and humility, we recognize this affliction as in mercy sent, we can but feel peculiarly sad, that one in the prime of life and vigor of manhood, the prop of an aged parent, the object of love with doting sisters, and an affectionate brother, should have been cut off while the future was yet so full of promise, and when there was so much to inspire confidence and insure success in the great battle of life; therefore. Resolved, 1st. That in the death of our friend this Exchange has lost an active and useful member, the Mercantile community an industrious, energetic, and scrupulous business man, society an honorable, upright and good citizen, one who adorned all the walks of life, and who was peculiarly gifted with an affable tempera The President and the Pacific Coast. ment and an amiable disposition, dissipating sadness and gloom with the sunshine of his genial nature from all with whom he came in contact. 2nd. That the esteem in which the de ceased was held was testified by the large concourse which followed his remains to their last resting place, and in the gloom of sorrow which pervades our entire community.

3rd. That we, as individual members of this Exchange, would recognize in this, the first inroad of the fell-monster, a voice from the spirit land, reminding us that we too are mortal, and in no unmistakeable language admonishing us to be ready for that great and inevitable change which must soon come to each and all.

4th. To the aged father, brother and sisters, relatives and friends we tender the sympathy of warm and sorrowing spirits, and would commend them to the Fatherly care of Him who doeth all things well and who has graciously promised help and succor to the afflicted. 5th. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the record of the Exchange.

GLEANINGS FROM STATE EXCHANGES.

The Greensboro Patriot learns "that two young ladies named respectively Mc-Clellan and Long, died in Statesville under rather peculiar circumstances on Thursday last. They were both born on the same day of the month and week, and almost at the same hour of the day, and were each 16 years of age. Neither one seemed to suffer with any disease previous to death, yet both died suddenly and at almost exactly the same minute. They were not related to each other, but were firm friends. It is supposed they died of either heart disease or congestion of the lungs. They were buried side by side, and as evidence of the high esteem in which they were held the various places of business in Statesville were closed and all business suspended for several hours."

The Wilmington Review says that "in a ride on the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad of more than 80 miles, which we recently made, we found the crops looking remarkably well, and the further we got from the seacoast the better they were. We do not recollect of ever seeing more thrifty and promising crops of cotton than we saw along the line from Magnolia, in Duplin county, to Goldsboro, in Wayne county. In the vicinity of Faison, Mount Olive and Dudley, they were especially fine. To frequent inquiries which we made of farmers whose plantations were at a distance from the railroad, we received the cheerful and encouraging answer that the crops were splendid— never better. In some localities cotton has been more fortunate than corn, though from the farmers of Sampson we learned that corn in that county was doing as well, if not better, than cotton, and that both crops were in excellent condition. They all feel confident that unless some misfortune should intervene the harvest will be greater than has been gathered for a number of years. Not only do the two crops which we have named promise to yield abundantly, but potatoes and rice are also in fine condition. The last three or four weeks have been remarkably favorable, and every kind of vegetation is coming forward rapidly. We were told by many farmers that they never knew a season when crops were doing better, or when an

STATE POLITICAL ITEMS:-

The Democrats of Alleghany met in County Convention at Sparta, on the 5th instant, Charles H. Doughton, Esq., presiding. E. L. Vaughan, Esq., was by acclamation re-nominated for the House of Representatives. A convention of delegates from Ashe, Alleghany and Watauga was called to meet at Jefferson on August 17th to nominate a candidate for State Senator, and Alleghany, which is entitled by agreement to name the candidate, re-commends Colonel F. J. McMillan for nomination. For county officers the following nominations were made: Sheriff. J. R. Wyatt; Coroner, John Edwards Register, F. M. Michell; Surveyor, Toliver Higgins. [Special to the Baltimore Sun, 13th.] WASHINGTON, July 12.—Some of the Radical leaders are anxious that the trip of the President to California next month shall be turned into an electioneering tour, in the interest of the Republican Presidential nominee. It is represented here that the Republicans on the Pacific coast are not very enthusiastic over the Chicago nominations, and that something must be done or the party in California and in Ore gon will be largely in the minority on election day in November. It is proposed, therefore, that the President, while on the Pacific coast, shall deliver at least one speech in favor of the election of General Garfield, and urge all those who have heretofore trained under Republican banners to stand steadfast by the party, and vote to give it another lease of power. Whether the President will consent to this arrangement or not the future alone can tell, but some of the most active Republicans assert that he will not ignore the pressure which is certain to be brought upon him to do something while on the Pacific coast to infuse life into the party there. It is part of the programme also to send Senator Blaine to California after the Maine election in September, and it is maintained that his presence will insure the electoral vote of the Pacific States for Garfield. Up to the present time not one of the Republican leaders has manifested the slightest desire to enter actively in the campaign, and this fact has chilled the ardor of many of Gen. Garfi l's personal friends, and they are inquiring as to what it all means. It is believed that at the conference between Garfield and Mr. Jewell and ex-Senator Dorsey, the respective chairman and secretary of the Republican National Committee, a plan of the campaign will be agreed upon.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS:-

It is announced that Judge A. W. Tourgee, author of that remarkable romance called "A Fool's Errand," will start on an errand of the sort as soon as he finishes a new fable about the South. and will stump North Carolina for Garfield

The returns received at the office of the comptroller of the currency to Saturday night last show that the national banks of the United States have now on hand a larger reserve in gold and silver than they ever had before. The amount is $99,355,-000. The ordinary average has been about 87 millions.

Col. Cash, the surviving principal in the recent duel in South Carolina, was arrested at his home in Chesterfield county, in that State, yesterday, on a warrant Shannon. He will be tried in Darlington county, the scene of the duel. Cash expresses his readiness for trial.

Yesterday morning a young man by the name of Miller, grandson of Mr. Peter Miller, owner of the Vue de Leau farm, near Norfolk, was found imbedded in a marsh, whither he had been tossed by furious bull which was in the pasture Although horribly gored, one of the horns of the animal having entered his neck and passed out on the top of his head, the young man was still alive when found. and lived for several hours after being taken to the house.

The famine in Kurdistan is still so terrible that at El-Kosh the Kurds have sold hundreds of young girls at about $10 a head in order to buy food. The British Consuls, the Armenian relief committees, and the American missionaries have been most active and have done all in their power to alleviate the miseries of the famished population; but the means at their disposal are very insufficient, and there has been hitherto great difficulty in transporting grain from one district to another partly on account of the deep snow and condition of the roads, and partly on account of the general insecurity.

A Texan was travelling recently in the country southeast of San Antonio. While following the dry bed of a creek he saw a small opening, and placing his ear to it heard a sound like that of rushing waters He dug away the sand, and found the opening to a cave, which seemed to widen. Soon he succeeded in making the opening sufficiently large to admit his body, and he ventured in. After proceeding a few feet he could distinctly hear the water dash over rocks and rush on toward some unknown destination. He proceeded still further, and when only a little over twenty feet below the surface reached forth his hand into a dashing river of pure, cold water. George Clement, of Oakland, Cal., a school teacher, narrowly escaped death while hunting in Hall's Valley, about fourteen miles from town. He came across a fine buck and fired. The animal fell to the ground and lay as if dead. Mr. Clement hastened up to the body and was engaged in an inspection of its fine pro-portions when the animal suddenly sprang up and rushed on him. Mr. Clement was taken unawares, but instead of retreating he grasped the antlers of the infuriated animal and for a few moments held him at arm's length like a vise. They stood facing each other for several moments, when the hunter began to yield gradually to his more formidable antagonist. The buck finally seemed to be infused with new life, and with a desperate effort hurled the hunter over a cliff. They both rolled down together to the bottom of the precipice, about eighty feet. The buck was killed before he reached the bottom, and Mr. Clement had his collar bone broken and sustained severe bruises. When Mr. Clement was able to rise he crawled up the cliff, and after a great effort managed to reach his horse. He rode to the nearest habitation suffering great pain. The man will be laid up for some time.

Conversation between an inquiring stranger and a steamboat pilot; "That is the Black Mountain?" "Yes, sir; highest mountain about Lake George." "Any story or legend connected with that mountain?" "Lots of 'em. Two lovers went up that mountain once and never came back again." "Indeed! Why, what became of them?" "Went down on the other side."

A Solemn Jaunt.

HOW MR. AND MRS, CHOWDER AND THE FOUR LITTLE CHOWDERS ENJOYED THEIR PICNIC.

From the Detroit Free Press. Mr. Chowder, Mrs. Chowder and four little Chowders went off on the excursion to Sugar Island yesterday. It had been the talk of the family for a week. Each child had been taken into the bath-room and washed, scoured and sandpapered down. Each one had received twelve lectures on the art of behaving himself or herself after getting aboard the boat. Each one had been told about fifty times what to reply if old Mrs. Clamshell felt gracious enough to ask after their health or if that bad Brown boy had one of his streaks on and made up faces at them. Every time the subject came up Mrs. Chowder called for silence and said:

"Now you children pay strict attention to what I say. You can't have any ice cream or lemonade or peanuts. You can't run up and down on the boat. You must not make a racket. You must not ask your father for pennies. You must not keep talking to me. If Henry or William asks to go fishing or in swimming they will get a whipping. If Lucy or Jennie sits down on the grass I shall punish them.

The six sat in a solemn row as the boat started out. Mr. Chowder had one eye on his two boys and the other squinted down the river. Mrs. Chowder had one eye on the two girls and the other flashing at a boy who had harvest apples to sell, and who was trying to get near them. Chowder had his mind made up that if one of his boys attempted to find out what a steamboat was like, or hinted at fruits or refreshments, or desired to mingle with other boys, he would squelch him on the spot; and Mrs. Chowder was fully determined to let her pinches be felt the very instant either of the girls forgot her dignity and wrinkled her stiffly-starched

Two or three hundred children romped ver the island, played "tag," picked up pebbles, climbed trees and raced after grasshoppers, but Chowder sat on a log and talked politics, Mrs. Chowder sat on a camp-stool and talked of the poor heathen, and the young Chowders sat on the edge of a plank seat and kept their mouths in proper pucker to reply "yes, ma'am" to every old grub-hoe who asked if they were having an awful good time. When they returned last evening not a hat had been lost-not a button gone-not a shoestring broken-not a particle of starch missing. They had that same solemn pucker, and Chowder and his wife had that same awful parental dignity. Not one had even the faintest trace of a smile when a newsboy standing at the gangplank shouted out :

"Here's a family who've been off to bury their dead grandmother-make way for the mourners!"

She summoned the family dogs and turned them loose upon her visitor. Bruin made a masterly retreat to the nearest tree. Miss Jennie took down her father's Winchester rifle, and, walking to the foot of the tree, took deliberate aim, and fired. Fortunately the first shot proved a mortal one, and the bear fell from his perch dead. Miss Jennie is said to be a young lady of diminutive physique and unusually quiet demeanor.

Who is Your Wife A COMPLEX CONUNDRUM COLLOQUI CONSIDERED. BY WALDORF H. PHILLIE We beg leave to announce that we is published, under the above title, a we novel and remarkable work. It is, in form of fiction, a humorous and power satire on Divorce Laws and their cations. The author takes for his eations. The author takes for his to proposed new marriage ceremony, the "Do you take this woman to be wife—until you are divorced?

"Do you take this man to be your band—until you thouge your mind?
"Then, they whom I unite, let Court put as under."
The work is full of humor and kee tire; it is decidedly a most original novel addition to American publical and it is confidently believed will. and it is confidently believed wi the literary sensation of the year. in paper binding, 50c.; in cloth, be had of all Booksellers and Ne
